“is a noise experience, a refuge or something strange and source of danger”

Cesc Fortuny is a musician, singer, and composer of Barcelonian origin. Born in the neighborhood of the Poblenou that in the year 2007 decides to adopt Zé Pekeño's name, in honor to the personage of the movie God's City.

From this date, the concerts have happened without rest. To half a way between the harsh noise wall and the drone/noise, Zé Pekeño experiments with rough sounds that are mixed by atmospheres drone.

In the year 2006 it moved to Monistrol de Montserrat after doing a series of trips for Spain, Morocco, Tunis or Egypt, as well as for France, Belgium, Germany, or Holland, where it has exchanging experiences with different musicians, especially touching the harmonica. It has published 27 musical, works has taken part in 6 compilations, and has collaborated in 4 works of other musicians. He accompanies several poets in recitals, presentations and performances on his works of experimental music, centred on use of sound out of context and noise as vehicle transmitter of message and sensation.

After almost twenty years to the scenes with the mythical band Entropy, Cesc got into Zé Pekeño's skin, explores the most brutal atmospheres, in contraposition to the most psychedelic sounds or the most quiet and environmental passages.

It has published several book of poems , and is and has been linked to several musical bands, for example O.D.I., Pandemonium, Oxímoron, Nostromo or Entropia.

He has shared scene with musicians and so diverse bands how; REE KOHL, Nuclear Assault, Exodus, Mortician, La orquesta del caballo ganador, Krisiun, Grabe, Juan Matos Capote, Las Aus, Vidres a la sang, Syd Barretina, o Alfredo Costa Monteiro ...

"The musician is exploring how resources are always 2 seemingly opposite: the noise and ambient. The saturation of the sound or the opposite: silence, space, emptiness, etc..

"I mean there is not an anonymous young who record 100 harsh noise works for 1 year and then disappears, but a man who has played more than 15 years in the band ENTROPIA (death metal) and continues with other b-side projects such as O.D.I. (dark ambient) or under his real name CESC FORTUNY , with which he recorded folk music sung in their native language: catalan. Apart is also his role as a good writer of poetry, which was published in book format or in different spanish underground press. (<http://ambient-noise-wall.blogspot.com.es/2014/07/ze-pekeno.html>)"

“The guy behind this projec is Cesc Fortuny. He plays he plays ambient harsh noise music. He’s an anarchist, pacifist, ecologist and a poet. He also works in other projects such as Entropia (the grindcore band) and Cesc Fortuny (folk music). (<http://www.screamophile90.blogspot.com.es/2014/07/ze-pekeno.html>)”

“ ... Yo le encuentro cierta analogía con Frank Zappa. Como el americano, Fortuny sale de la electrónica popular -ahí está su base de blues- y llega a la explanada donde han confluído los experimentos vanguardistas. Si Zappa, al final de su vida, compuso obras que en nada desmerecen de la estética innovadora de György Ligeti, Cesc Fortuny ha sumergido intencionadamente el talento en los ruidos. Busca entre fronteras borradas. Es difícil ir más allá. (Francisco Javier Irazoki. Durante cuatro años (2009-2013) publicó su columna Radio París en El Cultural, suplemento del diario El Mundo.)”

"Abissal":

"Abissal" is the Catalan word that means abyss, the oceanic space among 3000 and 6000 meters of depth. Therefore it is a dark zone where the sunlight does not reach.

The forest is opposed to the inhabited zone that is a tamed zone and therefore it has a double cultural meaning: a refuge or something strange and source of danger.

The Celtic Druid and the medieval Witch have their natural habitat in the deepest of the forest since there they can be more nearby to the nature and also to be nearby to the magic.

Registered, produced and masterized in Monistrol de Montserrat during 2014
